Mayor Cherie Wood

It takes a village to run a thriving City. In South Salt Lake something inspiring is happening and the women in charge have much to do with it. From city government, schools, and community partners, more than ever, women who carry a high level of expertise, professionalism and compassion are bringing big changes to our community.

Starting right here at City Hall, one of the most rewarding aspects as Mayor has been to witness the ascent of females and people of color running for office (and winning!). I am proud of the number of women who have joined our leadership team and are committed to creating a better city for ALL.

This shift in empowering women at City Hall has been blazing trails, as I've noticed how many women in the SSL community are also adding to this momentum and taking the lead. I wish to call out four examples, women who are making noticeable strides to bring about a brighter future and inspire others to do the same.

For March (and every month), let's honor our local women with recognition, efforts to better support them, and provide a safe platform and a voice in our community. Let's continue to tell the story that our city values every single person who resides, works and visits South Salt Lake.

ANA GARCIA

*Family Liaison Coordinator,
Promise SSL*

"Our South Salt Lake Community is rich with diversified identities, and I am proud to serve them."

Ana Garcia began working with and serving the South Salt Lake Community in 2005 as a family liaison and basic needs coordinator in the Granite School District. Wanting a change of pace, Ana started working with Promise two years ago as a family liaison, and then in October of 2021 as a full-time family liaison coordinator.

Women On The Move in SSL

She says, "I love my job and am passionate about helping people. The most rewarding thing for me is to see how grateful people in need are. I value the connections I have made where trust, respect and compassion for each other are at the core of our interactions."

Ana's work aligns with this value as she works to build relationships between afterschool programs, schools, families and community partners to improve youth wellness. As a Promise contact person, she links community resources, services, and opportunities to youth and families in need. Her role is to facilitate engagement and empower families through knowing how important their voice and participation are for the community.

TERI SLAUGH

*Business Development
Manager, GAVA Talent
Solutions*

"I love being with the people in this community and seeing the impact."

Teri Slaugh's day job is as the Business Development Manager with GAVA Talent Solutions. Her work includes searching for talent on an interim or direct hire basis for businesses.

Teri serves on the Dual Immersion Academy Board public charter school that provides bilingual education to students in Salt Lake City. Teri is the Executive Director for her non-profit Canvas4aCause which has been working with the 'Clubhouse to Careers' Promise internship program. With the SSL Chamber, Teri serves with Teresa Bagdasarova as a Co-Chair of Women In Business (WIB). In 2022, they have plans to work with the SSL Arts Council and showcase a local artist/creator that is a member of the Creative Industries Zone. WIB is also working to offer Small Business Workshops at the new Community Opportunity Center.

CITY COUNCIL CORNER

Corey Thomas, District 2

March 8 is recognized by countries around the world as a day to celebrate women's achievements and promote gender equality. In the United States, the first national Women's Day was observed in 1909.

I feel honored to be a part of making history in South Salt Lake as the first time the city has been represented by supermajority women and our mayor in leadership. Six of the seven council seats and our Mayor are led by strong women in our community. It is great to be a part of a big change, in which more women are being elected to office here in South Salt Lake.

I am looking forward to the next four years on City Council working alongside these intelligent women, who want to change our city in positive ways. Thank you to all the residents who voted in last year's election that helped change our City Council's history.

Note: Opinions expressed here may not be representative of all Members of the City Council.

LEANNE HUFF

Crisis Services Program Administrator, State of Utah

"I support Mayor Wood and her vision of investing in all the residents of our community."

As a licensed mental health clinician, LeAnne Huff is currently a program administrator overseeing crisis services for the State of Utah. In this role, she works with local, state, and national stakeholders helping to build out mental health crisis response services and provide better care in our communities.

LeAnne says, "I am grateful for the opportunity to represent District 1 on City Council for South Salt Lake. We have a strong community and exciting developments are happening in our city. I support Mayor Wood and her vision of investing in all the residents of our community, including her creation of South Salt Lake's Mental Health coalition and the dedication of the city and the coalition in improving the health of all our residents."

LAURA VERNON

Great Salt Lake Coordinator, Dept. of Natural Resources

"It is my intention to emphasize and encourage projects that will enhance the City while maintaining its unique character."

For her day job, Laura Vernon is the Great Salt Lake Coordinator for the Department of Natural Resources Division of Forestry, Fire and State Lands. She shares that the most rewarding thing about this job is working with an array of resource specialists and stakeholders to find answers to complex Great Salt Lake issues. Laura says, "The Great Salt Lake is a fascinating and invaluable resource for our state and it is exciting to educate people about the importance of the lake."

Laura reports that since moving to South Salt Lake 10 years ago, many remarkable growth opportunities have occurred here. As the Planning Commission Chair, she says, "It is my intention to emphasize and encourage projects that will enhance the City while maintaining its unique character."

Public Safety

SSL Establishes a Civilian Review Board

Message from SSLPD Chief Jack Carruth

South Salt Lake City leaders deliver on a commitment to transparency and accountability with advice and consent for members of an independent Civilian Review Board (CRB). The City's inaugural CRB members were selected by community leaders from neighboring jurisdictions. The CRB Selection Committee, Frank Lilly, Jeanetta Williams, Monica Dobbins, Kalleta Lynch, and Abby Dizon-Maughan spent several weeks reviewing 27 applications and conducting virtual and in-person interviews. The City Council met on Wednesday, February 9, 2022, and unanimously gave Advice and Consent for all appointed CRB members brought forward.

The CRB is tasked with reviewing certain Use of Force and Vehicle Pursuit incidents. Building and sustaining ongoing dialogue and transparency with our community is crucial to the success of our Public Safety department. In addition, they will provide a mediation program and encourage community engagement in policing.

We have a dedicated group of officers, and I believe this board will only enhance the quality of services we provide. Beginning monthly meetings in March, we look forward to working with the City Leaders to enhance our department and community.

Civilian Review Board

Zac Barnes, Conrad Campos, Joy Glad, Jason Keffer, Kevin Miller, Christina Nee, Cassius Willis

Alternate Members

Lorrina Heisey and Richard Lane

Advisory Non-Voting Member

Gary Cox

"The CRB enhances transparency with the appointment of qualified residents determined by a five-member selection committee who are local experts in the areas of racial justice, civics, and community involvement."

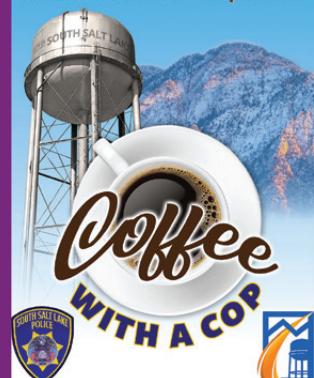

—Mayor Cherie Wood

"I'm proud that we have led the way in police reform. This is the first step of many and I'm excited to see how we will continue to improve safety for all."

BUSINESS WATCH

Other strong attributes they bring to the SSLFD are compassion, physical stamina and strength, detailed medical and technical fire and rescue knowledge.

I have witnessed that our female firefighters have enormous intellectual, social and emotional skills that are paramount in delivering the highest possible care to our community. While it's no secret the firefighting profession has been seen as one dominated by physical strength, the truth is women meet these physical challenges just as well. Being a firefighter goes beyond just brute strength, it requires a complex mix of skills and traits and the women of South Salt Lake Fire are a testament to the breaking of this glass ceiling. Bravo to the women of the South Salt Lake Fire Department!

SSLFD is Breaking Barriers

Message from SSLFD Chief Terry Addison

Firefighting as an industry has been male-dominated. Women as firefighters, while only making up a small percentage, have been in rank for almost 200 years of the fire service in the U.S. We know that gender and racial diversity greatly improves organizations and helps address the needs of the public better. With a small but growing number, I am proud to state that we currently have nine female firefighters. The national average is between 4-5% and the SSLFD is slightly above 14%. Two of our nine female firefighters currently serve as Captains in combat officer roles. Three senior female members of our team have over 42 years of experience in our department. In my opinion, as women firefighters, their strength is in mentoring co-workers.

Success Story from the MRC

Having a background of trauma and depression, Weston sought help at the Men's Resource Center where he spent nearly all his time reading books. The MRC case management team worked closely with Weston until he was accepted into a supportive housing unit. During his tour, Weston spotted a small private library in the common area, which prompted him to sign the lease on the spot. Now he is thrilled to have a quiet place of his own to read, and also shares books with the community. Most recently, his caseworker reports that Weston is doing well, and was able to reconnect with a sister who works just a few blocks away.

Celebrate SSL: The 21st S-Line Neighborhood

As we celebrate 2022 as the 'Year of the Neighborhood', we are highlighting the areas that make us unique and taking note of what makes them so special. For March, the spotlight shines on one of our oldest - the 21st S-Line Neighborhood. It is the site of the homes that rallied to incorporate our city back in 1938 and remains one of the most "classic." Let's talk about its history, landmarks, businesses, and what makes it a great neighborhood in South Salt Lake!

21st S-Line Places of Interest

Kearns– St. Ann's School

Originally built in 1899, Kearns-Saint Ann Catholic School began as an orphanage by the Sisters of the Holy Cross. The need for an orphanage was partly due to a high influx of orphans as a result of fathers being killed in mining disasters, and single mothers struggling to support their children. When the Utah State Foster System was created, orphanages were no longer needed, and Kearns-Saint Ann School officially became a private Catholic school in 1955. In 1980 was listed as a historic site, and in honor of the founders and benefactors of Kearns' St. Ann's Orphanage, the school was renamed Kearns-Saint Ann School in 1991. Today it is one of the most diverse schools in the city, and hosts a Promise SSL program, practicing high school athletes from Judge Memorial, and services the adjacent St. Ann's Church.

Promise Park and Honoring Hser Ner Moo

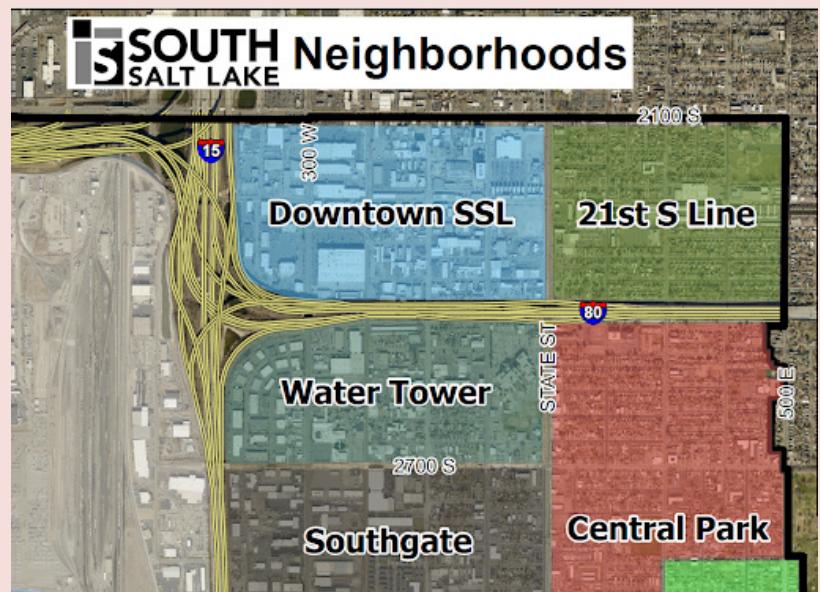

At the age of seven, Hser Ner Moo was found brutally murdered in a South Salt Lake apartment. This happened in 2008, shortly after her family had landed in SLC as refugees from Burma (Myanmar) Karen by way of Thailand. In July of 2020, Mayor Cherie Wood dedicated a new park next to the S-Line at 2230 South 500 East, near her home, as Promise Park, in memory of Hser Ner Moo.

Her murder was a catalyst in bringing about the Hser Ner Moo Community and Welcome Center and led to the Promise South Salt Lake program now active in 13 locations. The center started modestly in the apartment complex where she lived and made a permanent home at the Columbus Center, where families can still find learning opportunities for youngsters from pre-school through high school. In Mayor Wood's words: "Promise Park marks a milestone in SSL history. The work of Promise South Salt Lake and getting to today has been a herculean effort by all employees. For putting our youth first, ensuring they have a safe neighborhood to thrive in, and meeting the needs of everyone in our community."

Community Happenings

MURAL FEST 2022

SNEAK PEEK: MURAL FEST 2022

While it's only March, the 5th annual Mural Fest is something to get excited about! We had a record number of applicants (204!), which made the artist selection tougher than ever. As it stands, by May 14th, 10 new murals will be added to South Salt Lake's Creative Industries Zone.

During the fest, you will be able to discover the murals and meet the artists on foot or on a bike. Listen to live music, be amused by buskers, and grab a bite or drink at one of several food trucks or local breweries and distilleries.

ATENTAMENTE UNA FRESA

@atentamenteunafresa | Mexico City, Mexico

As a surreal artist and muralist, Antentamente Una Fresa calls Mexico City home, and her list of work is both extensive, impressive and can be spotted in numerous locations around the globe.

With ties to an art project commissioned by the Goth movie director Tim Burton (maybe you've heard of him?), Antentamente was selected for the MURAL FEST in 2020. However, due to the pandemic, her ability to travel to South Salt Lake was delayed. The third time's a charm, in May of 2022, Antentamente will be adding a huge splash of color here, including a few fantasy characters, and 'Gimlet the Distillery Cat' on the south wall of Beehive Distilling at 2245 S W Temple.

LINDSAY HUSS

@lindsayhussart | Ogden, UT

As a lifelong artist, Lindsay Huss has always followed her passion for creating. Earning degrees in both secondary art education and visual arts from Weber State, Lindsay taught art for 10 years at Northridge High School. In 2009, she made the leap into freelance work. With a long list of completed mural projects, many in Ogden, Salt Lake locals may be familiar with the colorful sky with trail runners on the Salt Lake Running Company building along 700 East. Her work also includes surreal landscapes, and vibrant contemporary animal and human portraiture.

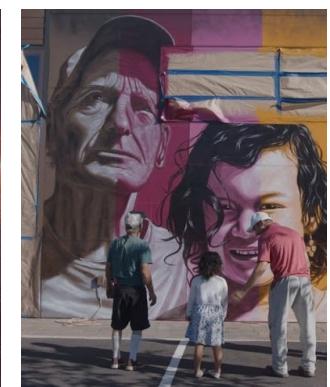

RAFAEL BLANCO

@rafaelblanco_official | Aurora, IL

A native of Alicante (Spain), Rafael Blanco is a contemporary artist fascinated with topics that include identity, human expression, diversity & inclusion. Trained as a classical studio painter, for the last decade, he has been transitioning more to public art, especially large-scale murals.

Rafael earned his BA in Studio Arts and a MFA in Painting and Drawing. His murals can be found across the country and he has participated in numerous street art festivals and mural competitions. Many of his murals include human portraiture, Rafael says, "Approaching a realistic painting is different than approaching a photograph." While a photograph is so perfect it is accepted as reality, "painting is not perfect because it is a representation through someone else's hands." He explains, "A painter can capture a unique element that a camera never will."

New to this Fest '22, Apprentices.

Four apprentices were selected to work alongside four of our Mural Fest artists. Check out these two.

CARINA BARAJAS

@carinabarajasart | Salt Lake City, UT

An artist of Mexican and Basque descent, living in Salt Lake City, Carina Barajas has been interested in drawing and painting from a young age. Gaining a degree from the University of Utah's College of Fine Arts, Carina enjoys painting landscapes and natural elements that she has seen throughout her travels in Utah and abroad.

BRIANNA THAXTON

@bthax_reynolds | Kearns, UT

A lover of art, local art community efforts and local artists as individuals, Brianna Thaxton claims herself to be an emerging professional artist. While earning her degree in Fine Arts at the University of Utah, Brianna worked on several indoor mural projects, including one inside the NICU at University Hospital and at the Smart Kids Development Center in our very own SSL.

DID YOU KNOW YOU CAN OWN CHICKENS IN SSL?

Apply for a domestic poultry permit and follow the guidelines of Title 6 of the City's municipal code. (No Roosters!) SSL Animals Services recommends the following for your hens during the winter:

PROVIDE ADEQUATE AND ICE-FREE WATER
Chickens need to have continual access to drinking water because they are trying to conserve energy and stay warm. Electric water-bucket de-icers can help keep water tanks from icing over.

BUMP UP THE PROTEIN AND ADD A LIGHT
The frozen ground reduces chickens' ability to forage for insects and worms. Experts recommend a higher protein feed of at least 20% to keep them laying.

FORTIFY THE COOP
Make sure your chickens have an enclosed area and will be protected from wind and moisture.

Happenings at Hser Ner Moo

At the Hser Ner Moo community center, the teen afterschool program has been able to engage in a multitude of enriching activities with Promise SSL's partner Youthlinc. Real Life, provided by Youthlinc, is a peer-mentoring program that utilizes a life skills curriculum to support students in their endeavors. Working with peer mentors, the teens worked on team building, positive self-image, friendship skills, and healthy relationships.

Award to Patrick Holman-Hart

Congratulations to Patrick Holman-Hart, Promise Coordinator at Central Park Community Center, who was chosen as Utah's 2022 Next Generation of Afterschool Leader from the National Afterschool Association! Since joining Promise SSL, Patrick has distinguished himself as a leader. In addition to facilitating an Out of School Time (OST) program, Patrick serves in several leadership roles and councils. He has served in a leadership role with the Salt Lake Afterschool Regional Network for the past four years. Patrick has a can-do attitude and is an extremely hard worker. He is both a caring and supportive staff member and supervisor. Despite being relatively new to Promise, he has contributed in so many positive ways; we can't wait to see what he will accomplish in the future!
