Investing in Our City: Gathering My Top Priorities for 2023

While every year brings new and unique challenges, I believe 2023 is one South Salt Lake can truly look forward to. Much of this optimism comes from the support this year's budget received from the City Council and the community. With newly approved funding, South Salt Lake is now better equipped to provide the services and amenities our community needs and deserves. This includes addressing our aging infrastructure, installing new systems for revenue-generating development, and offering competitive pay to help recruit and retain qualified City personnel. As you can see, there is much in store for South Salt Lake and as 2023 gets underway, I want to take this opportunity to share my top priorities for the year.

Prioritizing Public Safety

In 2021, over 600 residents responded to a Community Values Survey. The majority of survey respondents expressed a strong desire to prioritize and maintain public safety in South Salt Lake. Having a strong, supported public safety team brings significant value to our city and is a main contributor to the high quality of life we enjoy. This is why I was pleased to see additional funds to improve public safety. Our police and fire departments have been short-staffed for years, and these funds will help with recruiting and retention.

Our Most Important Natural Resource: Water

The Community Values Survey also showed that residents want the City to be mindful of environmental issues. Providing our city with water that is clean, safe to drink, and responsibly used is crucial for 2023. As our city grows, the need to address our aging water infrastructure becomes even more important. Funding will not only aid the city in making necessary repairs and upgrades to our water infrastructure, it will enable the city to acquire the land needed to install a new well and meet the increased demands for water. Continued public outreach and incentive programs will help to educate and encourage residents on conservation. The city will also be evaluating landscaping requirements, continue our focus on citywide conservation at facilities and parks, and will further promote ways to protect our waterways through responsible use of our stormwater and runoff systems.

Prioritizing Housing in SSL

Possibly the most significant issue we have as a community, state, and nation is the lack of affordable housing and otherwise. The housing stock does not match the increased demand, making it more and more difficult to afford to live in South Salt Lake. This shortage and its economic impact have hit some harder than others, but as a community, it affects us all.

As a city, we have some ways to address this issue such as zoning, but, unfortunately, we don't have control over everything that impacts housing. The whims of the market that drive developers, the reactions of legislators to try to steer development, and property ownership and rights sometimes wield more influence. Working within these constraints, we need to be visionary, creative, and nimble. The high priority this year is to become skilled and proactive in bringing new housing investment to South Salt Lake. This includes preserving existing affordable housing and building new housing for the residents that need it most. Here are some key steps we have taken to accomplish these goals:

- I have hired a new Director of Community & Economic Development who has extensive knowledge of affordable housing that will benefit the entire city team.
- We are drafting the city's first comprehensive Housing Strategy in a decade to build upon the ideas generated as part of our 2040 General Plan.
- We are exploring grants, partnerships and funding to help the city generate affordable housing.

With these steps, we hope to get into the game of affordable housing. Our previous approach to create naturally occurring affordable housing is no longer viable due to drastic shifts in the market and we need to adopt a different approach. So we are lacing up our cleats, heading into training, and aiming for our first win.

I committed long ago to put people's needs first. I always start by listening. I want to ensure that your priorities are my priorities, so please continue to share your ideas by calling or sending messages to me or your City Council representatives. Here's to 2023, may we work together to make our community even greater, Cheers!

The Rules of Snow Removal

While our Public Works Department is hard at work keeping the streets clear of snow and ice, here are a few things residents can do to help out.

- The owners of businesses and residences are responsible for removing snow and ice from the sidewalks in front of their buildings and parking lots.
- Snow should be removed the same day it falls, or by 10 a.m. the next day if snow falls into the late evening.
- Keep snow out of the roads
- When shoveling your drive or walk, shovel the snow away from the road and onto your property.
- Clear the area by the road on the left side of your driveway, as this creates a good spot for plows to unload their snow.
- Parked vehicles impact snowplow operators. Avoid parking on any city street between 2:00 a.m. and 6:00 a.m.
- Remember that it is illegal to park on a street or in an alley for more than 72 hours consecutively, and to leave unlicensed/ unregistered vehicles, or detached trailers on the street.

Yellow is the New Green. In 2022, as a City, our goal was to reduce water usage by 20% at our parks and facilities, we accomplished this by reducing the number of days we irrigate at our parks and facilities.

Our Public Safety Team is increasing its efforts to provide an even higher standard of excellence to our community by taking on an innovative approach to local law enforcement (see the SSLPD's Chief's message p. 3).

SSLPD Adopts an Innovative De-escalation Program

*Message from SSLPD
Chief Jack Carruth*

As a police department, we strive for excellence in everything we do to serve the community. We are continually looking for ways to improve our processes and give our officers the tools and training they need to go above and beyond in performing their duties.

Recent high-profile use-of-force cases have encouraged law enforcement nationwide, including the South Salt Lake Police Department, to review their practices and policies around police response to reduce incidents of force and mitigate violent confrontations. Ideally, we want every law enforcement interaction with the community to have voluntary compliance. When that does not happen, we want to de-escalate the situation as quickly as possible while using the least amount of force needed to ensure everyone's safety. De-escalation is often mischaracterized as being weak on crime, backing down, giving up, or being detrimental to officer safety. But when done effectively, de-escalation helps those in crisis regain control so that officers can more easily manage a situation. It's an essential tool for minimizing harm while keeping our community safe.

Training and communication are vital to helping our officers respond successfully to these situations. This is why, in January 2023, all our officers will be trained in Active Bystandership for Law Enforcement (ABLE). ABLE is an evidence-based program built upon decades of research and on-the-ground experience and has been successfully implemented in law enforcement agencies across the country. This innovative policing program prepares officers to intervene successfully to prevent harm and help law enforcement agencies enhance their relationship with the communities they serve. The training will provide our officers with practical strategies and tactics to prevent misconduct, reduce officer mistakes, and promote health and wellness. I look forward to this opportunity for our department and am confident that this program will provide significant benefit to our officers and enable them to better serve our community.

Beware of These Cold Weather Hazards

*Message from SSLFD
Chief Terry Addison*

January and February are two of the leading months for home fires. Cooking, heating, and holiday decorations such as lights, trees, and candles are the cause of many of these fires.

- When you are using any portable heating equipment, keep anything flammable at least 3 feet from any heat source such as fireplaces, wood stoves, radiators, or space heaters.
- Install and test carbon monoxide detectors in your homes and test them monthly, and only plug one heating appliance (such as a space heater) into an electrical outlet.
- Never use an extension cord with a heat-producing appliance; they are only intended for temporary use. If extension cords are needed, have an electrician install additional outlets where you need them.
- Have your heating system professionally serviced to make sure it is clean and working properly to prevent carbon monoxide emergencies.

Above all, be ready to check on family and neighbors who could be at risk for cold-weather hazards; and have a wonderful, safe January and a Happy New Year!

At the request of Mayor Cherie Wood, the SSL Cabinet served up lunch at the Pamela Atkinson Resource Center. The purpose was to learn how the facility operates and to better get to know those who reside there. Mayor Wood shares, "As a vulnerable population, many barriers can prevent one from finding housing. One thing I discovered while at the Resource Center was that many have jobs and are active in the process of acquiring a permanent residence."

CELEBRATE SSL: Meadowbrook Place, Roper Yard & Services

We highlighted a neighborhood a month in 2022, deemed the 'Year of the Neighborhood', but left out a few important ones at the center of it all. While not as many residents live there, they are still critically important pieces of South Salt Lake's history as a "City of Industry" for much of the last century. Through the decades, like I-15, I-80 railroads were built here, forming a crucial link around the region for commerce and commuters. The highway and rail divided neighborhoods but TRAX trains eventually brought them back together. I-15 became perhaps the biggest barrier of them all and for many years, the lone neighborhood, Meadowbrook Place enjoyed.

Here's a roundup of history, landmarks, and things that make these neighborhoods great!

"Our city is building great neighborhoods. We believed this when we took the reins a decade ago to help housing get built on formerly industrial property. We believed this when we worked closely with Salt Lake County to locate the new Tracy Aviary Nature Center built down the street from here. We believed it by supporting the crossing of Roper Railyard by Parley's trail. And we believe now, that by making this Parley's Trail connection, we will keep getting more and more people to the river and enjoying the parkway."

—Mayor Cherie Wood, May 2022

These neighborhoods connect to Mill Creek and the Jordan River. The open spaces and trails around these natural amenities are continuously being improved to incentivize growth here.

Why is the Services Neighborhood considered a catalyst area? The 2020 General Plan describes the Services Neighborhood just north of Meadowbrook Place, as a future "flex commercial area." This means that it is deemed appropriate for the retention and expansion of large retail areas and businesses. The city plans include more pedestrian and bike connections as well as

- Trail access to the Mill Creek
- Access to the Jordan River Parkway
- Addition of new restaurants and services
- Additional open green spaces

MEET TAMMY, a single mother of one who begins her career as a home healthcare aide. Starting out, Tammy receives $9 per hour while working 40 hours a week. This brings her to an annual income of $18,720. With the benefits Tammy is receiving, her income is $782 above the self-sufficiency line.

It's a girl! Tammy has her second child. She's now working 25 hours as a medical secretary for $15 an hour. She is now $1,810 below the self-sufficiency line.

Tammy is a go-getter. Her hourly wage is increased to $18 per hour and she is now making $37,440 annually, bringing her $6,441 under the self-sufficiency line.

Congratulations Tammy! She has earned a raise and is now making $11 per hour. Still working 40 hours a week, her annual income is now $22,880. However, this raise makes her ineligible for certain benefits and she is now $3,493 below the self-sufficiency line.

After taking time to spend with her newborn, Tammy decides to go back to work full time. Her annual income is $31,200. With the increased hours, she drops to $9,759 below the self-sufficiency line.

As a local nonprofit organization, the two main objectives of Circles Salt Lake are to (1) Help families get out of poverty and (2) Remove the barriers that keep people in poverty, like the Cliff Effect.

What is the Cliff Effect?

The Cliff Effect occurs when a household loses eligibility for government assistance when their family's income surpasses the threshold set by Federal Poverty Guidelines. Even a small raise in income can "push people off the cliff" and suddenly, the family is worse off than before receiving it. Circles works closely with participants to give them additional support and tools to navigate the challenges which can occur from the Cliff Effect.
